Attachments: Office of Protocol of Canada: Message to missions affected by road closures in downtown Ottawa // Bureau du protocole du Canada : Message aux missions affectées par les fermetures des routes au centre-ville d'Ottawa (54.27 kB)

Good afternoon,

~

Thank you for your patience regarding this matter. We have noted your concerns and have shared your message with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

For your reference, please find attached circular sent to the attention of missions in the cordoned-off areas of downtown Ottawa. We understand that your offices remain accessible, but please let us know if anything should change. We will likewise contact you should we receive further information that will be of particular benefit to your mission. s.38

Your mission can continue to rely on the RCMP to address protective policing concerns, and report any emergency or crime in progress to 911. Please continue to follow media and police information sources for the latest details on any changes to road closures or other measures that may affect your operations. Although we cannot provide any estimates as to the future of this situation, please contact the RCMP Protective Operations Coordination Centre at (613) Irrelevant / Toll Free 1 Irrelevant Irrelevant to relay concerns. Ottawa Police are presently managing these road closures, and may still prohibit non-emergency vehicles from entering these areas if they assess such travel is unsafe.

Good afternoon,

This document relates to concerns expressed to GAC by a diplomatic mission with an office located in the downtown core. The diplomatic mission expressed concerns about the ongoing demonstrations, specifically concerning illegally parked vehicles, constant honking during business hours and fumes at all hours. The diplomatic mission believed the noise and fumes were causing harm to their staff over time. The diplomatic mission was also concerned about the danger of fire or explosions from refueling procedures taking place very close to their premises. The diplomatic mission noted that it had not been impacted by security events but that the illegally parked idling vehicles and closed streets and bridges were causing delay and uncertainty for their staff who required access to the premises for essential work. Honking had also disturbed work and meetings during office hours.

Further to our message of January 28, 2022, the Office of Protocol of Canada again informs the diplomatic corps of ongoing demonstrations in Ottawa that may impact your operations and personal business. Additional convoys of vehicles are expected to arrive in Ottawa from Saturday, February 5, 2022. In view of this developing situation, we continue to recommend that you avoid unnecessary travel, especially in the downtown core. If you must travel, please plan ahead and expect significant delays. For real-time updates, continue to follow the city's traffic management tool on Twitter: @Ottawa_Traffic.

Should your mission require police services, please contact 9-1-1 for emergencies and the RCMP Operational Communications Centre at (613) s.38 for protective policing services, including any difficulties accessing official premises.

Pour faire suite à notre message du 28 janvier 2022, le Bureau du protocole du Canada tient à informer de nouveau le corps diplomatique des manifestations en cours à Ottawa qui pourraient avoir un impact sur vos opérations et vos affaires personnelles. D'autres convois de camions devraient arriver à Ottawa dès samedi, le 5 février 2022. Compte tenu de l'évolution de la situation, il est recommandé de continuer d'éviter les déplacements non-nécessaires, particulièrement au centre-ville. Si vous devez vous déplacer, planifiez votre itinéraire à l'avance et attendez-vous à des retards considérables. Pour des mises à jour en temps réel, suivez sur Twitter l'outil de gestion de la circulation de la ville : @Ottawa_Circule.
